Depression is one of the most common mental disorders with around 60 to 80 percent of the people suffering from it. And most of them choose to live in silence and are reluctant to inform the doctor. Some try to self-medicate by taking only medicinal drugs, or even alcohol. On the other hand, alternative therapy, meditation or yoga, which are available in Nepal, have been found to be effective for the persons suffering from depression. "Yoga, meditation and healthy lifestyle habits like healthy diet are very useful for all ages," says Surendra Shrestha, medical officer at the Northern Nepal Health Management Centre in Kathmandu. "Lifestyle modification like meditation helps people to become more aware of the changes in the mind. And this changes brings relief to patients suffering from depression," he added. As per available data, around 10-12 percent of the population in Nepal is suffering from depression. The data also showed that about 25 percent of the male population is more likely to suffer from depression as compared to a mere 8 percent of the female population. "Meditation is very useful as it improves cognitive functions and improves the mood. And most of
