Require Redemption is an Action-RPG with a focus on flashy combat, puzzles and a surprisingly deep story. You play as Rhea, a lone mercenary who travels the land for coin. What follows is her unlikely chance at redemption. Created by the same team that brought you The Way of the Passive Fist and Mercs! the team has again assembled and created Require Redemption to bring you a fast-paced romp through a twisted fantasy world. You are an immortal skeleton, a kick ass-n-blade wielding mercenary who must save the last bastion of humanity by discovering who are the true enemy of mortals. Key features: Extremely graphically detailed, fully animated world with razor sharp animations! Collect hidden items, unlock secrets and obtain new gear! Over 100 new quests to complete! Brand new combat system Use Ancient Fighting Techniques! Immortal skeleton! Bonus Scenes! Requires Windows Vista or higher.A gregarious and nose-deep salamander may mark the future of a hotel project in Spokane. The City Council's rental property committee Tuesday approved a rezoning that would allow a boutique hotel to be built on the edge of Liberty Lake. The project would replace the Liberty Casino, which the City Council closed last year, leaving many questions about its future. The applicant, Chea, a company incorporated by a couple of Spokane natives, plans to build a 226-room boutique hotel with the potential to expand to 278. The development would include a conference center with a gym, a restaurant, a coffee shop and a pool. Chea has proposed to finance the project through a tax increment financing district. A senior development specialist at the city assessor's office said the TIF district would generate about $3.2 million in taxes in the first year and about $2.7 million in each of the remaining years. That money will go toward construction, operating expenses and infrastructure. City officials said they expected the project would generate $43 million in economic benefits. When the time comes to start issuing development permits, the TIF district is expected to be paid off and the hotel would stand on private property with a golf course view. Committee member Jim Graham said he looked at housing developments in Denver and those types of projects don't need TIF districts because the concept is a newer and different one. He said the small-scale boutique hotel would have a more urban feel than many other residential projects. c9d1549cdd

Read Only Memories is an experimental art game focused on creating an immersive visual novel experience. While having no traditional "plot", the game will support multiple plotlines with text, written dialogue, images, and video as the only medium.You play as a person who has lost all their memories, making you trapped in a world you don't remember. The narrator, who looks like you, will fill in these gaps, helping you unravel the mystery of your life and trying to lead you through the dangerous world to safety. It's set up so you'll never miss an important line, with every new interactive scene containing a clearly labeled "Next" button, so you'll never have to worry about skipping dialogue. In fact, the only interaction the player will have is choosing which direction they want to walk next. And as the development progresses, the questions this choice will answer will be revealed. Key features: • Written by a 4-person team with extensive writing experience. This means not only do you get the most immersive visual novel experience to date, but you also get to be part of the writing process itself. • Players will have a choice of several different endings and branching storylines. This is made possible by writing a system that allows the author to select which part of the story should be shown to the player. • You control the movements of the characters, choosing where they walk and turn. • There will be times where the text will be extremely powerful, often changing the entire plot. Make the best decision, make the right choice, or make no choice at all. • At the heart of the game lies the idea of your character's life before it was lost. You'll discover the elements that drove them to that event, and will be able to research how they managed to overcome the obstacles of their life. • You will be able to select what clothes you wear. Clothing will be shown at the most important moments in the game, and your character will react differently to it. • When an event is going to happen, the game will display new ways of achieving the desired result. The player will be able to choose how to react, by either denying the event, accepting the event, or failing and ending up in a different direction. • As the characters get more involved in the events of the world, they will start to change and grow, and you'll have to decide if you will side with

> FT: with a 41-35 edge, what can the Broncos do to avoid a second consecutive three-game deficit to start the season? Peter King: I think they have to recover quicker and play tougher. The Patriots showed how quick they could jump to beat the Broncos last Sunday. They just had a hot coming out party from the first drive, so we're going to see if they can have another. But the Broncos need to be tougher and quicker. They'll also have to play the Patriots differently, but we already saw that last year. Whether the Broncos can play that way on Sunday is the real question. Because of this, trains on the central London line arrive and depart on a very regular schedule, which brings about a new problem: if a passenger was supposed to board or alight a train but misses his turn because of delayed trains, he will get on the wrong train. This risks a long delay in the entire line. This is the central issue in a legal challenge by a customer who missed his train by less than a minute. But when his real complaint is expressed as a complaint about the length of the delays and the number of trains, the issue cannot be expressed in a comparable manner.
