Real Time Strategy Game, Sid Meier's first title of the Command Series, 1980. Decision in the Desert is a classic simulation game with hard decisions and no room for mistakes. Spend the next two months preparing for the campaign you choose. Build base camps, roads, airfields, ports and hide great amounts of resources in order to make your forces last long in battle. Research new technologies and use them to improve the performance of your troops as well as your base facilities. Use the five different scenarios to test your abilities. All you need to do is not get killed. The game is available on Windows, Mac and Linux systems and the source code is made available under the LGPL license. It is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 3.0 Unported License. Sometime between Fall and Winter in 2015, I have completed two additional add-on packages, dusi.DLC and dusi.EU. These, along with the newest version 0.9.0 (available from this server), will now be my main server software for Decision in the Desert. About "Dusi". The game was originally released in 1990 on DOS systems by MicroProse and the copyright is held by that company. Over the years, it has also been available for Linux systems under the GPL. I am the author of a small number of wargame and strategy game tutorials, for which the purpose is to produce higher level computing skills and appreciation of wargames. I also continue to write and sell my own games and tutorials, and now have books available on Amazon.com. As a result of this work, I have a special interest in (and have written a few books on) very difficult games, including (but not limited to) Warspiel Wargame, Warspiel Wargame No. 2, The Great War, Innsbruck 1961 (the first "Battleground" computer game), and "Soulfire - The Art of Wargame Construction". In a Google groups search, I would be interested in any interesting links. Missions / Goals: Since the initial release of Decision in the Desert in 1990, I have spent a great deal of time and effort attempting to document the game's history, and maintain its quality, via the game's forums. My goal is to maintain the game's stability, using communication tools made available by the modern day internet. I am also

Fly with your Acrobatics expert - Mark West - on his mission to find the truth and stop The Dragonfly from their evil deeds. While your father has been abducted, the government has issued an exclusive order for an over one ton meteorite. You have only 12 hours before the storming of the White House. To complete your task, you will have to unlock all 4 Areas, a host of levels, and overcome the most dangerous obstacles in each zone. Amongst the variety of items that you can find on your adventures is a giant ton meteorite that will help you take down large monsters and dangerous enemies like hell hounds, lady spiders, death-thrashing insects and more. As well as weapons that can devastate any foe, you will also be able to find powerful tools that will help you to solve puzzles and interact with other areas. Key features: - Great classic-style graphics that make you feel like a hero; - Create your own team of 12 characters; - Amazing playable characters; - Variety of 2-4 players local co-op and PvP modes; - Cut-scenes with awesome graphic details; - Game mechanics inspired by several games from old school era; - Easy and adaptive controls for the most difficult levels; - Level editor and creation of your own maps; - Over 100 enemies with the possibility of increasing the difficulty for the later stages. The Dragonfly Chronicles has been made to be a small game but with big impact and the hope that it will give back to those games that inspired and influenced me, and maybe gave a hand to those who will explore the game. Drunken Fight Simulator, also known as Drunk Fight, is a simulation football game for the Windows Phone and Xbox Live, released in Europe on 30 November 2012, and on 29 November in the United States. A sequel, Drunk Fight 2, released on 12 September 2014, for Windows Phone 8.1. It also features cross-platform support for Xbox One in the Xbox One version. Drunken Fight is a PC game, but is also playable on Windows Phone. Gameplay Drunken Fight uses a battle mode in which the players must attack the opposing goalkeeper through the opponents table using their table football ball. Successful attacks are dependent on using power shots as offensive players slowly move toward the opponent to score. players sometimes receive a penalty, which is called an "assist" in the game. A penalty may be worth more than a normal shot and may result in a strike-out or goal. The players are represented by eleven players: goalkeeper 6 offensive players (A, B, C, D, E and X). These players must be controlled by holding down on the appropriate button on the joystick. The ball moves with the player(s) so its movement is not controlled as much as it usually is in a standard football game. The power shot is controlled by holding down on the joystick button, similar to the way a normal football is usually controlled. 3 defensive players (F, G and H). They defend the goal, and can easily run back to the goalkeeper to help the goalie. The gameplay is very diverse, with about 20 different types of opponents, each with their own strengths and weaknesses. The computer opponents use a set of AI algorithms and are programmed to perform a set of actions, such as: Get in the Same Zone - the opponent will try to get closer to the goal to score in order to do this they have to get in the "Goal Zones". Get Defensive - opponent will try to reduce the attack time of the offensive players by defending the blocks. Keep Ball Control - the opponents try to keep the ball away from the goalie. Adjust Defense - the opponent will try to make the goal "free" in order to do this, he has to put the midfield and defense players near the goal. If the player attacks to the goal automatically goes out to score. Overtime/Highlight Moments- the opponents will cause a highlight moment to appear such as a balls on the table,
