They shot five people over a period of less than five hours, the victims including one of the boys' parents, a police officer in Missouri and a 6-year-old girl. After midnight Sunday, police responded to the report of gunfire outside a house in Creve Coeur, Missouri. In addition to the gunshot victim found by police at the scene, four other people were found dead inside, including the father of one of the teens, Creve Coeur Police Chief Jim Conway said. The teens later drove to a nearby campground, where they shot four other people, Conway said. Officials with St. Louis County had said earlier that two of the shootings occurred in Creve Coeur, and the third took place in Ferguson, Missouri, a city with a large black population that has been in turmoil since Michael Brown, an unarmed black teenager, was shot and killed by a white police officer in August. Four victims, all white, were discovered shot at the campground. Their identities have not been released. JUST WATCHED Body of 6-year-old daughter found Replay 0cc13bf012
